Big Change Planned In U.S. Air Strategy

Defense Cuts Get Criticism In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's cutback of the Strategic Air Command is not the only big change planned in the nation's air strategy. There is also going to be a reduction in air defenses.

The Pentagon chief's formal announcement Wednesday of plans for scrapping two-thirds of the 680 strategic bombers by 1971 and his hint of possible development of a new long-range jet bomber obscured the air defense cutback.

But a close examination of the list of 126 U.S. bases to be closed or curtailed indicated the air defense reduction also will be large, and most of it will be accomplished within the next two or three years.

The SAC cutback was greeted with a barrage of congressional criticism even before the order was formally announced.

"Unwarranted Gamble" Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee called it "an unnecessary and unwarranted gamble with our national security."

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., a member of the Senate Military Appropriations Subcommittee, labeled the phase-out order "utterly false economy."

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., urged that McNamara explain the plan before Congressional Appropriations Committees.

The National Guard Association and the Reserve Officers Association also attacked the plan. In separate statements spokesmen for the two groups said that now was no time to cut back on any part of the nation's defenses.

The air defense reduction seemed certain to trigger a similar response. It involves the following actions:

The 17 jet fighter-interceptor squadrons the regular air force has stationed in the United States are to be eliminated, and the Army is planning to shut down 18 of its Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft missile sites.

Large Fighter Cut The reduction in anti-aircraft missile sites represents a nationwide cut of about 13 per cent. At present the Army is operating more than 130 sites.

The cutback in fighter-interceptor squadrons amounts to an overall 40 per cent cut in that type of air defense. There are, however, still 21 active Air National Guard fighter-interceptor squadrons.

McNamara said the air defense cuts were possible because of the "reduced Soviet bomber threat." Russia now is estimated to have fewer than 200 bombers of intercontinental range—up to 5,000 miles.

In addition, a belief that U.S. Strategic Air Command bases are no longer "profitable targets" for enemy bomber attacks lies behind much of the Pentagon's Order.

Gemini Space Tag Will Get Under Way Sunday

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Gemini control decided today on a day — early Sunday launch of Gemini 6 to send two more astronauts aloft for rendezvous with Gemini 7 spacemen Frank Borman and James Lovell.

"Excellent," crowed Lovell when he got the word. "We'll try to see if we can fit it into our schedule."

Astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford, jinxed in a September attempt to go aloft in Gemini 6, were cleared for a Sunday morning launch to put them in space nose-to-nose with Gemini 7, now entering its fifth day of a 14-day endurance flight.

Borman and Lovell, passing the two-million mile mark in flight, reported uncomfortably warm cabin temperatures during the night. But the temperature fell by itself during the day.

The "go" for Gemini 6 meant work for Gemini 7.

Lovell and Borman, using maneuvering rockets, must "circularize" their slightly egg-shaped orbit to make it almost a circle for the rendezvous Sunday.

Two separate "burns" were called for to shift into an orbit about 185 miles up.

There were two "panes"—times when orbital mechanics would allow a Gemini 6 liftoff for rendezvous—on Sunday. They were a 48-minute period starting at 9:50 a.m. EST and 35-minute period starting at 11:18 a.m. EST.

Gemini 7, meantime, received a "go" for 90 orbits, another day in space toward the goal of 14 days.

Borman and Lovell were spending considerable time on the temperature problem aboard Gemini 7.

Reds Inflict Heavy Losses On Vietnamese

SAIGON (UPI) — Hard-pressed South Vietnamese troops were locked in combat today with an estimated regiment of Viet Cong 40 miles south of Da Nang.

The well-entrenched Communists inflicted heavy casualties on an elite Vietnamese ranger battalion Wednesday, and another Vietnamese army battalion fought a midnight battle Wednesday night in the same area.

At daybreak this morning, the Communists poured "intense" mortar and small arms fire on the army battalion, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

A third government battalion moved into the battle zone from Tam Ky during the night and was reported in heavy contact with the enemy.

The battlefield is about 10 miles south of Ho An, or about 355 miles north of Saigon.

Bombing Difficult

Fighting Wednesday was so close that U.S. Air Force and Marine planes had difficulty unloading their bombs without running the risk of hitting friendly forces.

Initial reports showed that more than 115 missions were flown in support of the Vietnamese troops.

Casualties to the ranger-battalion were officially listed as "heavy." No casualty figures for the other government units or for the Viet Cong were released.

Military briefing officers reported the Communists were fighting from well dug-in bunkers and foxholes and were pouring intense automatic weapons and small arms fire on the government troops.

Transport Crashes A U.S. Air Force C130 transport plane crashed Wednesday night while taking off from the Marine airfield at Chu Lai, about 80 miles south of Da Nang, and one American soldier was killed. Three Vietnamese soldiers were seriously injured. There were 10 persons aboard.

The plane was a total loss, but the cause of the crash was not announced.

A company of Vietnamese troops defending Tam Phouc hamlet 20 miles southwest of Saigon were forced to withdraw Wednesday night when an unknown number of Viet Cong attacked.

The Vietnamese company withdrew to Suoi Ca post for a short time, leaving the hamlet in Viet Cong hands. The hamlet was later recaptured by the Vietnamese forces.

Friendly casualties were listed as "moderate." Three Viet Cong were killed and their weapons captured.

Prosperity And Peace US Goal, President Says

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson was expected to tell organized labor today, as he told business leaders a week ago, he is striving for peace in Viet Nam and for continued prosperity at home. Both goals, he maintains, require sacrifices.

The President will speak to the AFL-CIO Convention in San Francisco by telephone from his LBJ Ranch at 5:30 p.m. EST.

On the eve of his most extensive review of the new budget, heavy with defense costs pushed upward by the Viet Nam war, Johnson will have a chance to reiterate his view that "peace is our goal" and that this country will talk "unconditionally, anywhere" to achieve it.

That was one theme he stressed on Dec. 2 in a similar long-distance talk to the Business Council in Washington. He coupled it with a forecast of a record, stable prosperity in 1966.

The speculation around the Texas White House was that the President would not dwell unduly on the raise in interest rate ordered by the Federal Reserve Board in his address to President George Meany and his AFL-CIO delegates. Since the rate decision cannot be reversed, the President has indicated he'll try to live with it.

Now firm in his plans to leave for Washington Sunday night, Johnson compressed two days of budget conferences into an all-day Friday schedule. He will meet Friday morning with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, then individually with his atomic, space, commerce, agriculture, science and budget chiefs.

Diplomacy Can't Win In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Johnson Administration's intention of continuing the military buildup in Viet Nam was expected to be the prime topic today at Secretary of State Dean Rusk's news conference.

With both sides apparently adamant against any political compromise, Rusk was expected to offer no hope for any

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI turned today from the Ecumenical Council to a host of major problems left unsolved during the course of the historic, 4-year-old meeting.

The 68-year-old pontiff closed the council Wednesday. Despite its solid record of church reforms, the gathering left the Pope facing problems ranging from mixed marriages to birth control, which are likely to occupy much of the rest of his pontificate.

Birth control was the foremost church issue on which the council took no action. However, the assembly's decree on the modern world did leave the door open to possible changes in traditional regulations banning all mechanical or chemical contraception.

The pontiff's personal commission on the problem has not yet submitted its final report. Pope Paul is expected to delay his decision until after he receives it.

Mercury Takes Dip In Florida

By United Press International

Temperatures dipped below freezing in northern Florida again today and snow flurries fell in Pennsylvania.

The mercury slipped to 29 degrees at Cross City, Fla., today. The same reading was recorded at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said most of the nation continued to enjoy dry weather. Scattered light showers fell in the Southwest and rains along the north Pacific Coast continued, with nearly 1/2 of an inch falling at Tatoosh and Destruction Islands on the Washington coast during the night.

early diplomatic breakthrough to end the bloody fighting. His noon EST news conference offered an opportunity for Rusk to rebut Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's assertion that U.S. actions in the Far East and Asia were "whipping up a military psychosis."

Officials said Rusk would not be able to offer any specifics on the number of men the United States plans to throw into the Viet Nam conflict within the next few months—even if it were wise to talk of numbers—because President Johnson is still pondering the escalation schedule.

The President, Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara were understood to have come to no firm decision at their Tuesday meeting in Texas on a request for an increase in American troop strength in Viet Nam.

Rusk was not expected to respond any more favorably to a Viet Cong Christmas truce offer than did his official spokesman Wednesday.

Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said the 12-hour truce was similar to previous gestures in the past and implied it was a propaganda gesture. He said a "real Christmas present for the entire world would be a readiness (on the Communists' part) to make peace."

The news conference, Rusk's third in six weeks, was part of an intensified campaign of public appearances he has undertaken to explain the American position while President Johnson's schedule is restricted during his recuperation from surgery.

Sit-In Student Draft Appealed

DETROIT (UPI) — Michigan's Selective Service System and student dissenters clashed head-on today as two University of Michigan students, reclassified because they participated in a Viet Nam protest went up for appeal at a Detroit draft board.

The two, David Smoker, 20, Royal Oak, Mich., and Patrick Murphy, 19, Detroit, were among four students who lost draft deferments because they participated in the sit-in at the Ann Arbor, Mich., draft board.

The decision on the case, believed to be the first of its kind in the nation will have national implications. The students and their supporters claim the issue is the right of the Selective Service to draft persons for participating in political dissent.

Col. Arthur Holmes, director of the Michigan Selective Service System, said the students violated the Selective Service Act by interfering with the business proceedings of the draft.

Holmes forwarded the information to local draft boards of 31 students involved in the sit-in. The two other students reclassified were Eric Chester, 22, also of Royal Oak, and Ray Lauzanne, 22, Detroit.

Spying In Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell played "spy-in-the-sky" Wednesday over Cape Kennedy as they flashed over the United States on their 59th orbit round the world.

Using a miniaturized 10-power telescope costing $4,491 the astronauts said they viewed ground activity at the nation's rocket center. "We just passed over the Cape and we could see them with the telescope," Gemini 7 reported.

Pakistani Mob US Lawmakers

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — A mob of Pakistan students demonstrated and shouted insults at nine U.S. congressmen when they visited the city of Mirpur to see a Kashmiri refugee camp, the leader of the American delegation said Wednesday.

Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., was one of the nine. "We were practically mobbed as we walked back to our cars," said Congressman Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., the group leader. "The situation got very much out of hand."

He said the police made no move to stop the demonstration, which happened Monday, and looked the other way when the students painted "Yankee No No" over the group's autos.

Zablocki said the demonstration broke out as the congressmen walked through the city in Pakistani Azad Kashmir after interviewing refugees who had fled there from homes in the Indian-held portion of the disputed province of Kashmir.

The youths, estimated to number hundreds, crowded close around the Americans and shouted "Yankee Go Home," Zablocki said.

Romney On Spot In Veto Session

LANSING (UPI) — The Legislature today reconvened for a one-day "veto session" that majority Democrats expect will stain the political image of Gov. George Romney.

As Democrats see it, the brief session will put Romney in a political hotbox.

Either some Republican lawmakers will bolt ranks to help override a Romney veto for the first time or the governor will be made to appear opposed to benefits for disabled veterans, elderly citizens and education.

"If we could have gotten motherhood in there, we would have," said a Democrat who preferred to remain anonymous.

Reports GOP Worried One Republican leader, who also preferred to go unnamed, expressed doubts about the safety of Romney's veto of a $1 million bill to liberalize property taxes for disabled veterans and the widows of veterans.

He went so far as to name one House member and three senators he said Republicans "are worried about."

Assuming a full contingent of lawmakers, Democrats need to pickup one Republican vote in the House and three in the Senate to overcome their first Romney veto. Such a setback could have far reaching effect on Romney's political future.

Elk Hunters Get 38 Opening Day In 4-County Area

GAYLORD (UPI) — Elk hunters shot and killed at least 38 elk before dusk of the opening day of the nine-day elk season in the Pigeon River area Wednesday.

An estimated 300 hunters converged on the four-county elk range extending into Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Otsego and Montmorency counties.

Troy Yoder, district conservation officer, said the elk kill was about half that of opening day a year ago.

He said hunting was somewhat tougher than a year ago, declaring that few hunters saw elk alongside roads and trails where many were taken in 1964. There was a kill of 28 elk last year.

Yoder said hunting conditions were good with about four inches of snow on the ground.

The first hunter to bag an elk was William Magnus of Romulus.

U. S. Recognizes Mobutu In Congo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has formally recognized the Congolese government of Lt. Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, the State Department announced Wednesday. The vote cleared the way for a visit by the Congolese capital of Leopoldville.

Lockwood, R-St. Louis, House Minority Leader Robert E. Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, and Robert McIntosh, Romney's executive assistant for legislative affairs.

Nearly Certain "It's 90 per cent solid," said McIntosh, after completing private talks with GOP lawmakers. "Only a series of unfortunate circumstances during the (legislative) day would lose the veterans' bill."

Democrats were, at least privately, willing to concede that they will most likely be unable to override vetoes on a $1.2 million Supplemental Appropriation Bill for crowded colleges and a $6 million bill for rent relief to needy senior citizens.

Those were the three vetoed bills on the agenda for this final meeting of the 1965 Legislature.

Information By Computer Relay To Aid Hospital

Announcement was made today by Sister M. Hildegard, O. S. F., administrator, that St. Francis Hospital will be a part of the most advanced medical and hospital communication system in the world.

The revolutionary system will provide professional personnel at St. Francis with the assistance of a powerful IBM computer complex valued at more than $4 million, to reduce their clerical workload and allow more time for patient care, according to Sister.

The 167 bed hospital here, owned and operated by the Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis, is one of 11 which will be connected with the computer—an IBM System 360—located at the central administrative office of the Franciscan Sisters in Peoria. The Hospital Information System, HIS as it is referred to, will be the first in the world designed to serve more than one hospital location.

Medical, laboratory and administrative information on patients at St. Francis will be transmitted from special terminals in nurses stations, doctors offices and service departments directly to the IBM system in Peoria. There, information will be processed, correlated and sped back in seconds to St. Francis for professional action.

Many Benefits
John Haines, associate administrator, said that through the HIS, the hospital will have an efficient means of linking nursing stations, clinical laboratories, pharmacy, blood bank, admitting office, medical records unit, business office and other departments.

Through the network of terminals, the computer will help admit patients, locate beds for them, order drugs, report results of lab tests, correlate X-ray and lab schedules, and plan special diets.

Operating room, testing and therapeutic facilities scheduling will be coordinated. Doctors will be furnished with current records showing treatment given and progress made by their patients.

"Patients, doctors and nurses will realize the principal benefits of St. Francis participation in the HIS. Patients entering the hospital will be ushered into their rooms with a minimum of delay. Nurses will be prepared for patient arrivals and ready to follow doctor's instructions," said Haines.

"Efficient staging of diagnosis and therapeutic procedures will allow for faster diagnosis and treatment. Check-out will be accurate and prompt."

Aid Physicians

The hospital administrator further stressed that "all these factors will tend to shorten the hospital stay, thereby reducing patient cost."

Physicians also will benefit from the increased service and efficiency of the system, said Sister Hildegard. Numerous summaries of patient information will be instantly available to the doctor through the terminals, including drugs, therapeutic procedures and laboratory tests.

Rapid return of test results and efficient scheduling insure diagnostic procedures will be completed in the least possible time so that specific therapy can be instituted.

Nurses, who are now spending up to 60 per cent of their time on clerical duties, will be able to devote more time to the medical duties for which they were trained, according to Haines.

By simply depressing a few keys on the IBM terminal in her station, the nurse can order drugs from the pharmacy . . . and the computer will automatically update the inventory for her. Hourly medication schedules will be printed for her under computer control. Bed availability lists will be prepared as required. Summaries of lab tests, by patient, will be available on request. Dietary hold orders will be automatically generated.

For Patient Care

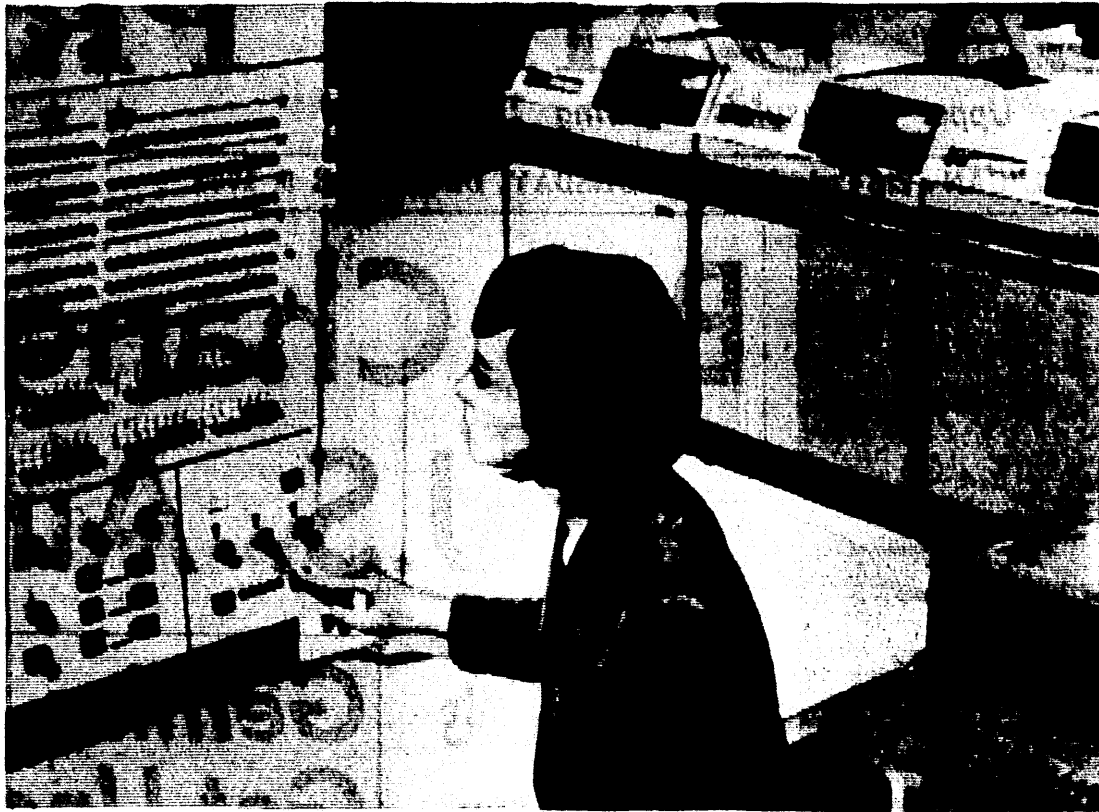

Although the computer will process the informational needs of the 11 hospitals, a committee comprised of members of St. Francis Hospital Medical Staff, Advisory Board, and Administration, will be formed to guide the programming efforts to maintain the highest medical standards. The programming will be devised on an individual basis.

Reverend Mother M. Pieta, O. S. F., mother general of The Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis in announcing the decision to proceed with the new computerized system, said "it is part of our unceasing efforts to improve the level of patient care."

She emphasized that the decision to implement the HIS is the order's vote of confidence that the clerical workload of doctors and nurses can be minimized, leaving them more time for patient care.

Major components of the total system include two powerful IBM computers, a System/360 Model 50 and Model 30; a magnetic storage device which can store more than 200 million characters of information; and 154 special terminals in the participating hospitals which are tied into the computers by telephone lines.

The other 10 hospital facilities of the order are located in Iowa, Michigan and Illinois.

THE IBM SYSTEM/360 Model 50 shown here is similar to one which will be the nucleus of the information system planned for hospitals of The Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis, Peoria, Ill. The central processing unit can hold more than 520,000 characters of information for retrieval in less than two and one-half minutes of a second. Feature of the religious order's hospital information system will be an auxiliary disk storage facility capable of holding more than 200 million characters of information.

Postoffice Has Evening Hours

To accommodate the patrons of the Escanaba post office, the office will be open Saturday, Dec. 11, until 5 p.m. and will remain open until 6 p.m. daily all the week Dec. 13-18. All packages and cards should be mailed for distant delivery by the end of the week of Dec. 18 to insure receipt for Christmas, says Postmaster James E. Pryal.

One of the biggest problems postal employees face is illegible handwriting. At Christmastime, when mail volumes skyrocket, this can become a major problem, Pryal said.

"The use of ZIP Code by mailers does help speed up the process because often if the city and state are unreadable the ZIP Code will direct the mail to the post office from which it will be delivered. Clerks at that post office, being more familiar with local residents, may be able to figure out the person to whom the mail should be delivered."

Another significant problem is the number of parcels delayed or actually undelivered because of poor wrapping or packing. Pryal urged that special care be taken to see that each package is tightly stuffed and that nothing rattles around inside.

Parcels are generally shipped in bags and often heavier items rest on top of smaller, lighter packages. The postmaster encouraged mailers to be a bit cautious and insure all packages.

All parcels should be addressed on only one side and should have the address written somewhere on the inside of the package in case the exterior wrapping should come off. It is a good idea to also enclose a list of the contents.

Poor packaging and illegible or incorrect addressing accounts for about half a million undelivered parcels each year.

Ask Gifts For Children At State Hospital

The Delta County Chapter of the Michigan Association for Retarded Children is soliciting gifts for the children's unit at Newberry State Hospital.

"Delta County's response to last year's appeal was most gratifying, and each hospitalized child received at least one gift," said President Jack Savard. "Many retarded children are forgotten at Christmas, and without your generous support there may not be enough gifts to go around on Christmas Eve."

Most frequently forgotten are the older patients who enjoy coffee, pipes, phonograph records, shaving lotion, cosmetics, embroidery work, jewelry, cigarettes, stationery and clothing. The younger children enjoy dolls, pull toys, balls and all types of games and toys.

Boxes are being placed in all the banks in Delta County by the Retarded Children's Association. Gifts need not be wrapped, nor be new as in the past, all gifts will be transported to the hospital through the courtesy of Clairmont Transfer and gifts may also be brought direct to their headquarters.

Safe Christmas Is Happy One, Says Fire Chief

More than 50 million American families in the next few days will be buying Christmas trees and decorating them for the holiday season.

Unless care is taken, this happy symbol of the holiday season can bring tragedy, warns Escanaba Fire Chief Nels Bergeon.

These suggestions are offered by Chief Bergeon to keep your Christmas tree firesafe: When you buy a Christmas tree, choose one which appears fresh. Before you buy the tree, run your hand over the needles to make sure they are firm and attached. If needles fall when brushed, the tree is dry and you should select another one.

When you get the tree home, keep it outdoors until you are ready to decorate it, or you can keep it fresh by standing it in an unheated garage.

You should wait until just before Christmas before setting up the tree.

Check Wiring
You should place the tree in the coolest part of the room, away from radiators, heaters and the fireplace. This will keep the tree from drying, and reduce the chance of fire.

Your Christmas tree stand should be of the type equipped with a water container in which the trunk can rest. Fresh trees will "drink" a sizeable amount of water, and you should fill the water container daily.

Only flameproof decorations should be used on the tree; those made of glass, metal or fire-resistant material.

Use only electric lights to illuminate the tree and be sure to check light strings before placing them on the branches. Those with frayed wires should be thrown away. If you buy a new set, select a type that bears the Underwriters Laboratories Label.

The switch controlling the tree lights should be some distance from the tree.

Don't Block Exits
Electric trains-part of Christmas in many homes—should be set up away from the tree. Sparks from toy trains could be fire hazards.

Lights on Christmas trees always should be turned off when everyone is away from home.

Check the tree frequently for dryness. In particular, check tree needles near lights. If they have started to turn brittle, change the position of the lights.

When needles become so dry they start falling, take the tree down at once and put it outdoors.

When Christmas presents are opened, the gift wrappings you intend to keep should be folded and put away. Other paper, ribbon and boxes should be gathered up and thrown away promptly.

Even if the tree still appears to be fresh, take it down the day after New Year's.

The tree should be placed in a spot in the room where it will not block an exit. And, throughout the Christmas season, one member of the family should be assigned to provide plenty of ash trays in all rooms if there are smokers in the house. Empty the ash trays often and always make sure before emptying them that all cigarettes, cigars and other smoking material have gone out.

U.P. Fights Cut In Milk Prices At Bay Hearing

Upper Peninsula dairy farmers testified today in a U. S. Department of Agriculture milk marketing order hearing at the Holiday Inn, Green Bay, Wis. that a cut of 20 cents per hundredweight in the price of milk Dec. 1 will be ruinous for them.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association, which is the bargaining agent for U. P. milk producers, and the Pure Milk Products Cooperative of Wisconsin are marshaling the protest and Atty. George M. St. Peter of Fond du Lac, Wis., is counsel for the dairymen.

The farmers are trying to impress the Department of Agriculture which administers the milk marketing orders like that for the U. P. that an emergency exists in the U. P. in dairy feed because of bad weather influence on the hay and grain crops and that a milk price cut will further aggravate an already serious cost-price squeeze in milk production.

Reduction Fought

The U. P. seeks relief, said St. Peter like that already granted by the Agriculture Department to milk order areas in Chicago, Milwaukee, Madison, Rockford and all the way to Texas and the Gulf for the next 8 months. The situation has been described in hearing as catastrophic.

Testimony included: Joseph L. Heiman, Delta County Extension director: "We had the poorest hay crop, quality-wise that I can remember in over 15 years. Practically all the alfalfa was gone due to adverse winter conditions. We are not sure if the quantity will carry us through the winter. Poor quality hay is selling at $20 a ton and hard to find."

er: "Feed and bedding situation extremely serious (in Chippewa County.) Without question herds will be dispersed while additional operators will reduce the size of their herds to coincide with the amount of forage they have available. In September I reported to Congressman Clevenger that livestock would be badly needed. . . . On Nov. 4 Secretary of Agriculture Freeman indicated that surplus feed would not be available for this area. This decision has been appealed."

Andrew Bednar, Gozabic County Extension agent: "Prices have gone up on all commodities but milk prices have remained relatively stable for 10 years. Even good farm management practices and scientific know-how are not enough to keep the dairymen in business. The community, I'm sure will accept a milk price increase and this is the only way we can keep our dairy farmers on the farm and thus contribute to the economic welfare."

Increase Needed

Wallace Keskitalo, Houghton County Extension agent: "Fifty-two dairymen left the industry during the past year. They could not provide the bare necessities for their families under the present price structure. Over 250 inches of snow-fall last winter causes a long burn-feeding season and higher costs. Dairymen definitely need better prices to provide their families even a modest living."

John Campana, Alger County Extension agent: "Grain harvest was extremely poor. . . . most dairy and beef farmers fed from hay stocks during July, August, September and October; pastures were in poor shape. . . ."

Frank Mohrman, Dickinson County Extension agent: "We had a feed situation of only 50 per cent of hay, 55 per cent of grain and 50 per cent of (normal) silage, so a lot of food will have to be purchased by farmers."

Gail E. Bowers, Menominee County Extension agent: "Central and southern part of the county roughage was real short. . . . ASC Committee applied for emergency grain and have been refused although in my opinion more farmers needed it this year than in some past years."

May Extradite Escanaba Men For Robbery

The extradition of two Escanaba men to Marinette to face charges of armed robbery is in prospect unless they waive extradition to Wisconsin.

They are John R. Valiquette, 20, of 1331 1st Ave. N., and Ronald F. Richer, 24, of 632 N. 19th St.

Marinette authorities charge that the two held up the Consolidated Service Station on Hall Ave. at 4:20 a.m. Dec. 3 and obtained about $230 in cash.

They were arrested by Escanaba police on Monday after police connected them with a car that had been stolen in Escanaba and driven to Marinette.

Escanaba police, sheriff's officers and Marinette police are collaborating in the investigation that is being continued today.

Marinette authorities said Valiquette drove the stolen car. Richer entered the station, and they returned to Escanaba in Valiquette's car.

Snow Fighters Ready To Keep Roads Open

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Snow fighters, those men behind the plows, are prepared to battle winter's ice, sleet and snowdrifts that are just around the seasonal corner.

The task is an enormous one even in this so-called "Banana Belt" of Northern Michigan, which has little snow compared to the other sections of the Peninsula. The job is a big one because there are more than 1,000 miles of roads and streets to keep open to traffic in Delta County.

Not only must the streets be plowed in Escanaba for wheel traffic, but there is the responsibility of removing snow from airport runways also.

"We have about 65 miles of streets in Escanaba that we keep plowed," said Kenneth Tushak, superintendent of public works. "This means ice control as well as plowing, of course, and when the snow accumulates we remove it entirely from Ludington St."

The city has sufficient equipment for the task without additional purchases this year. There are five pieces of plowing equipment plus the "sno-go" for snow pick-up.

After a storm the streets are the first responsibility, and all streets can be cleared within eight hours, said Tushak. Then comes the airport runways, where the snow is likely to be much less at Escanaba's airport than farther north. Major storms usually ground the planes at other ports also, giving time for snow removal operations here before service is restored.

Sidewalks are plowed in Escanaba after bad storms, but the plows are not sent out if there is but two or three inches of snow. The reason? The blade of the sidewalk plow must be at least two inches above the walk surface to avoid obstructions. Plowing is therefore reserved for bad storms. Householders meanwhile are encouraged to use their snow shovels.

At Gladstone snow plowing starts with the storm and continues "around the clock," said H. J. Henrikson, Gladstone city manager.

"We have about 33 miles of streets that must be kept open to traffic throughout the winter," he added. "The most difficult locations to keep plowed are along Lake Shore Drive and Minneapolis Ave., where the drifts are deep in a bad storm."

Gladstone has all the equipment it needs for the job, including five plow units and two graders, the city manager reported.

The Delta County Road Commission has a double responsibility in its snow removal operations—it must keep open all of the county roads and also the state trunkline highways.

William J. Karas, superintendent-engineer of the Delta County Road Commission, said there are 855 miles of county roads and of this total 825 miles are kept plowed. The 30 miles not plowed lead to seasonal use places not occupied in winter.

"There are 130 miles of trunklines that we maintain under our contract with the State Highway Department," Karas explained.

Snow fighters have jobs that few men will envy. They are called to duty in the worst possible weather, sometimes on Sundays and holidays because storms are always unscheduled, and driving a big plow at night through a storm on a narrow road or on a main highway where traffic is scarcely visible takes steady nerves—and a steady hand.

The county has plenty of equipment to do the job. Two new sanders have been purchased recently to replace old ones.

Another responsibility of the Road Commission is to plow private driveways, but the number of requests for this service have declined with establishment of the $35 minimum price per driveway, Karas reported.

Since the driveway plowing law and the minimum price went into effect, the number of requests for driveway plowing have declined by about one-third. There are requests for 130 this year compared to an average of about 350 in other winters.

Delta is one of 63 counties in Michigan with trunkline maintenance contracts. The county road commissions do the work and bill the State Highway Department.

The State Highway Department this year is expanding its storm warning and road condition reporting service. This service is centered in Lansing with weather and road reports relayed by teletype to the 10 district offices.

True Sportsman Delight Forever

BY LEE SMITS

The Yakima Valley in eastern Washington swarmed with pheasants. Even more pheasants than in a peak year in South Dakota or on Pelee Island. Hotel halls lined with cots. Restaurants bore signs, "Open at 3 a.m."

It was a disastrous year for truck gardeners who seemed to be trying to forget their plight by being nice to hunters. Muskmelons, watermelons, tomatoes, peppers were left to rot in the fields, prices being so low that it didn't pay to pack and ship. We were urged to tote away all the produce we wanted, for nothing. We busted watermelons to slake the thirst of the dogs and ourselves.

There were odd sights. A freight train, with engineer and fireman leaning out of cab windows with shotguns. A Model T, driven by a white-haired woman while a leathery old-timer beside her was poised to pot a roadside pheasant with fine shot from a worn Colt's .45.

In our party were three men and two Gordon setters. The owner of the setters had arranged the expedition, had driven us over the Cascade Mountains and was pretty much in charge of operations.

WE IMMEDIATELY discovered that he was a claimer. Three men shot, three pheasants dropped and the dog-owner, with an auto-loader, yelled that he had made a triple. A rooster, hard-hit, sailed a quarter of a mile away to tumble straight down but when we suggested going over to recover the bird our leader refused, explaining that we'd pass up too many birds if we took time out.

He was good to the setters. Eastern bobwhite had been planted in the valley and along creek bottoms dogs would run into quail, covey after covey. Many dogs were punished for this crime, but the Gordons were patiently hauled off.

After the first hour or two of frenzied shooting we took it easy, working a weedy draw in an alfalfa field about once an hour as it re-filled with pheasants seeking cover.

The express office in Yakima kept open until midnight for hunters to ship birds. Our leader won a little credit each evening by volunteering to sort, tag and ship the day's kill for the three of us. We discovered later that he had taken care that we got the shot-up birds and old roosters with long spurs.

I REMEMBER the memory of this long-ago companion, although his name is no longer with me. He was the arch-type of non-sportsman, composing a slim minority. Others like him will come to mind, if you have devoted much time to hunting and fishing.

Trying to describe his opposite isn't too easy. He may lack the kind of manners that would fit a black-tie occasion. He may cuss, chew tobacco, sleep in his underwear, drink coffee from the saucer, yet how wonderful to be in his company! To list a few of his traits, he is extra careful, every minute; concerned with gun-safety, car-safety, boat-safety. He quietly, with no flourish, does a little more than his share. He doesn't wait his turn to build the fire, wash dishes, tramp the corn field, drive the swamp, tramp to a gas station when the car runs dry.

He is the man who has more invitations to hunt and fish than he can accept. Some of his outdoor manners have been learned, from observation and admonition at an early stage. But it seems likely that the best of him is inborn. He never indulges in futile complaining; makes the best of hardship, bad luck, disappointment, frustration.

For every non-sportsman I have encountered over all the years, I've known at least four who were the great guys. And how grateful I am for memories of them!

Merger To Join ABC And ITT

NEW YORK (UPI) —The American Broadcasting Co. (ABC) and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) have agreed to merge into a single corporation that would have assets of more than $1.8 billion and be one of the nation's 20 biggest companies.

The merger would involve a stock exchange of between $350 million and $400 million.

In a joint statement, ABC President Leonard H. Goldenson and ITT Chairman and President Harold S. Genesen said their boards had approved the merger. The companies' stockholders, the Federal Communications Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Justice Department also must approve it.

The Justice Department said it always investigates large mergers but had no "special" comment on the ABC-ITT proposal.

Under the agreement, ABC would be operated autonomously by its present management as a separate subsidiary of ITT.

Goldenson said the merger would greatly enhance the long-range growth objectives of ABC.

"The tremendous research knowledge and development activities of ITT in the latest scientific advances in world wide communications will inevitably result in an expansion of our own communications system through our country and the world."

Another advantage cited by financial observers was that ABC would have additional capital at its disposal, and that it could include its broadcast revenues in the consolidated report of the merged company.

There also was speculation that ABC's management was fearful the network would be taken over by its largest stockholder, Norton Simon, the West Coast collector of large companies and art.

Kennedys Ski

NEW YORK (UPI) —Jacqueline Kennedy and her children will spend Christmas in the New York area and then fly to Sun Valley, Idaho, for a skiing holiday with other members of the Kennedy family.

Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's secretary, said the former first lady probably will leave for Sun Valley Dec. 26.

Seaway Is Gaining In 7th Year

By OSCAR F. LITTERER

Federal Reserve Review

Tonnage of cargo carried on the St. Lawrence Seaway during the first seven navigation seasons fell substantially below the projections on anticipated traffic made during the planning stage even though it rose significantly each year following the second. This latter development has justified optimism at Great Lakes ports to such an extent that new facilities are being constructed to handle larger volumes of freight in the future.

Growing use of the Seaway, as evidenced by growing tonnage figures, is gradually changing the route of the flow of commerce between United States, Canadian, and other foreign ports. Of special interest is the change which has taken place in the movement of commodities through district ports.

Financially, the Seaway has been only a qualified success. Revenues have been less than anticipated and liquidation of indebtedness may take a longer period than was originally scheduled.

Before the Seaway was opened, the United States and Canadian toll committees projected the cargo tonnage to reach 33 million tons by 1961 and 50 million tons by 1968.

In 1961 tonnage totaled 23.4 million, nearly one-third short of the projected figure, but it increased in each successive year from 9 per cent to 27 per cent annually. Nearly double the tonnage of the first year (20.4 million tons) was carried through the locks in 1964 (39.9 million tons), the latest complete season of record. In spite of the late opening of the Seaway in 1965 due to the late break-up of ice on the lakes, the tonnage shipped via the Seaway by the end of September had set a new record, 3 per cent above the comparable total for 1964.

Products shipped from Great Lakes ports during the first six years of complete record, both from the United States and from Canada, were mainly agricultural products — principally grain plus a small quantity of animal products.

When the St. Lawrence Seaway opened Great Lakes ports to direct ocean transportation, it also opened them to foreign producers. A situation of increased competition thus presented itself, especially for producers of iron ore in the Lake Superior region who could conceivably find themselves competing in the lower-lake ore markets not only with eastern Canada but with overseas countries.

That foreign ore did indeed flow in is evidenced by the fact that the increase of imports at both United States and Canadian Great Lakes ports via the Seaway over the six-year period of complete record was mainly in nine products. This with manufactured goods aggregated from 93 per cent to 96 per cent of the total annual tonnage. The remainder was a small tonnage of grain, animal products, forest products, and Canadian package freight.

Imports at U. S. lower Great Lakes ports were mainly iron ore from eastern Canada in 1964 aggregating 12 million tons. Other commodities from eastern Canada included grain, sulphur, pulpwood, and manufactured goods.

At U. S. Great Lakes ports, the cargo originating at overseas ports grew slowly. The bulk of the shipments were manufactured goods, the principal items of which were iron and steel. Each year a wide variety of items, constituting only a small tonnage, were imported, for example, mineral products, principally aluminum ore, aluminum ore concentrates, and sulphur, imported in 1964 totaled 214,000 tons. The importation of iron ore from overseas countries such as Venezuela, Liberia, and Sweden, which had been anticipated when the Seaway was opened, did not materialize.

Shippers have complained about poor service at Great Lakes ports, but it is improving. Stevedoring, while not yet up to coastal port standards, is getting better. Nearly all ships handling general cargo on the Seaway now operate under uniform conference rates and shipper face less bargaining over ocean rates. At the principal ports, ships run closer to schedule with fewer costly delays as captains have gained experience in navigating the Seaway's narrow channels and tricky currents.

Port cities are competing for both general and bulk cargo and are building new facilities and allocating funds for promotional activities. For instance, a new 5-million bushel grain elevator recently was completed at Superior, Wis.

The tonnage on the Seaway in recent years has been depressed as a result of a shift in the source of industrial raw materials. The importation of eastern Canadian iron ore has lagged as steel producers have turned to a wider use of low-grade concentrated ore from the Lake Superior region which reaches the ore mining regions of the lower Great Lakes region without going through the Seaway.

While detrimental to greater utilization of the Seaway, this development, of course, has stimulated greater activity in eastern steel mills through Atlantic ports instead of through the Seaway.

The opening of the Seaway expanded direct overseas shipments from the Duluth-Superior port. Exports rose from 17,600 tons in 1958 to 1,981,100 tons in 1959, the first year of the Seaway operation. In subsequent years, exports gradually increased, reaching 3,222,000 tons in 1964. The largest volume of exports by far was grain. Each year a large number of ocean vessels arrived without cargo to load grain for delivery at foreign ports (overseas shipments of grain ranged from 1.2 million tons in 1963 to 2.1 million tons in 1962 and 1964). To date the volume exported has depended largely on the demand for U. S. grains in overseas countries; the Midwest has had a surplus supply of grain each year. Also, a drought in Europe stimulated an unusual demand for U. S. grain in Europe in 1959.

Imports received from overseas countries at the Duluth-Superior port continue to total far below the tonnage shipped out to those countries. Receipts of overseas tonnage prior to the opening of the Seaway was only 2,700 tons in 1957 and 3,800 tons in 1958. This tonnage figure rose to 11,700 in 1959, the first year of Seaway operation, and in subsequent years rose slowly reaching 44,600 tons in 1964. The principal commodities received from overseas ports were iron and steel, aluminum ore, food products, liquors, and wines.

That the Seaway route is partially fulfilling the original objective is evident by observing the growth of Canadian traffic. The Canadian purpose in constructing the Seaway was to improve transportation between Great Lakes ports and eastern coast ports and the tonnage between these ports has risen materially. In the United States the objective was to provide a better link for mid-continental agriculture and industry with overseas markets. The Seaway has provided an improved outlet for Midwest agricultural grain; and although it has not proven to be an outlet for industrial products, it has opened the Midwest industrial region to foreign raw materials which will be needed in ever larger quantities in the future.

Although the problem of liquidating the indebtedness incurred by Canada and the United States within the originally planned 50 years still persists, according to the growth figures on annual tonnage the Seaway, over a longer period of time, may yet prove to be the sound financial adventure originally projected.

Snow Big Item In Road Costs

LANSING (UPI) — It is expected to cost $10.76 million to keep state highways clear of snow and in good repair this winter, the State Highway Department announced.

In an average winter eight feet of snow falls on Michigan, requiring 217,000 tons of salt on state highways plus the operation of hundreds of snow-plows, scrapers and graders, the department said.

Sam Cyderman, assistant maintenance operations engineer, said the department has established a county radio network that will broadcast alerts when a storm whips down from the north or across Lake Michigan. It will supplement the hourly weather forecasts and conditions transmitted by teletype to county headquarters, he said.

Storm warnings send sanding trucks and scrapers to stations or trouble spots miles from home garages. Their jobs are to keep roads clear of drifts and hazardous slippery spots.

The Highway Department operates snow removal equipment in 20 counties, and is billed for the cost of snow removal by county workers in the 63 other counties plus 164 cities that maintain state highways.

To help keep roads clear in those 20 counties, the department operates 302 snow-plow attachments, nine rotary plow attachments called "sno-gos," ten wing plows and 194 underbody scrapers, plus 56 motor graders which are used in emergencies.

"We rarely 'lose' a road, unless an abandoned car or a ditched truck prevents plows from getting through," Cyderman said. "We had to laugh when an eastern travel agency requested that we list the state highways that are closed during winter months."

"No state highways anywhere in Michigan ever are closed, not if we can help it," he said.

Court Of Appeals Rents Quarters In Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Offices for the third district Michigan Court of Appeals will be located in the exhibitors building in Grand Rapids starting Jan. 1, it was announced Wednesday.

The Court, now housed in the Chamber of Commerce Building, will use the seventh floor of the exhibitors building at a rental of $33,872 annually for the first four years. After that the occupancy cost would drop to $19,260.

Chief Judge T. John Lesinski said the lease is for four years with an option to renew up to 10 years. However, the state may construct a permanent office facility for the court in the interim.

The tonnage on the Seaway in recent years has been depressed as a result of a shift in the source of industrial raw materials. The importation of eastern Canadian iron ore has lagged

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have found a way to keep the front of my wash and wear dresses from clinging to the back of them (or is it vice versa?) while they are drying. I put one of the plastic bags (which clothes come back in— from the cleaners) on the hanger, then put the wet dress over it.

The bag helps the dress dry faster and more wrinkle-free, since it isn't clinging together, and also there is no danger of rust stains on it from the hanger.

Bette

Dear Bette:

It's for true! The dresses do dry faster, and so much more wrinkle-free.

And this plastic-bag-under-the-garment method is also wonderful for those pretty nightgowns which have a filmy nylon overskirt, with a heavier nylon knit underneath, and for slips, blouses, etc.

And, as an added bonus, the clothes don't slip off the hangers.

Thanks a bushel.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I think I have the answer to the problem of keeping bread fresh for a week or more.

Since I put most of my meat in the freezer, I turned the meat drawer in my refrigerator into a bread drawer.

Magical! Bread never dries out or gets stale before I can use it.

I think that a good-sized bread drawer would be a useful addition to new refrigerators.

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Why is it that a husband, who sits unemotional and expressionless through all love scenes of tear-jerking tenderness, will like spaghetti in a pot of boiling water, when a goopy, sloppy babe lifts big eyes and says "da-da"? ? ?

G.

Dear Heloise:

Here's an idea for those who have little telephone index finders, and like to keep them nice:

Instead of writing all the names in ink, use a pencil so that when someone moves, or their phone numbers change, it can be corrected without damaging the book.

Also, cut out, or tear off, the little name and address labels that come on envelopes and packages, and Scotch tape them in your books. They take up much less room, look neat, and can be replaced beautifully.

Martha Scott

Dear Heloise:

Now, that's what I call using your noggin! Thanks, Heloise

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When you disconnect your refrigerator at any time (such as vacation or in moving), if you will stuff wadded-up newspapers into it while it is disconnected, the odor will be absorbed into the paper, and when it is removed the refrigerator will have a fresh, clean smell.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

"If you look into the mirror you will turn to stone!"

Synopsis: Mr. D is driving his bus to the made-up land of Zabbazara. On the way he picks up a donkey, a crocodile, a little lost boy and a Voodoo man.

CHAPTER FOUR THE VOODOO MAN'S PRESENT

Mr. D was sorry he had picked up the Voodoo man. It wasn't that he didn't want to go to Santa Land. What he didn't like was the way the Voodoo man's eyes glittered when he said he had business in Santa Land. What kind of business? Mr. D wanted to know.

"I have a present for Santa Claus," said the Voodoo man. "A very nice surprise."

This made Mr. D feel better. He turned the bus off the main road as the Voodoo man directed and headed for the mountains in the north. The old bus rocked and swayed on the bumpy roads as they went higher and higher among the mountain peaks.

It grew colder and colder. The snow was coming down so fast and thick Mr. D could hardly see the road. It didn't matter, because the Voodoo man could see everything — even in the dark — and he knew exactly where to go.

Mr. D did as he was told. He said to himself that, after all, the Voodoo man must be good to think of taking a present to Santa Claus, when everyone else went to Santa to get presents.

"You have the real Christmas spirit," he said to the Voodoo man.

"Oh, I like to give presents," said the Voodoo man. "I give presents all the time."

"I wish you would give me a present," spoke up the donkey. "I wish you would give me some sense."

No One Cause Found In Riot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sweeping programs in employment, job training, education and better police relations are the keys to solving the racial sickness in our major cities, according to the McCone Commission, which investigated the worst Negro riot in this century.

In releasing its quarter-million-dollar, 101-page report on last August's week-long riot in the Watts-South Los Angeles area, the eight-member commission could not isolate one underlying cause.

Rather, "... the causes and contributing circumstances were many," said Commission Chairman John A. McCone, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency and the Atomic Energy Commission. His group regarded problems that precipitated the riot here as universal among the nation's large urban areas.

The report listed such causes as: High rate of Negro unemployment, extremely low literacy rate and poor preschool training, frustration over delay in implementation of much-heralded federal war on poverty, and resentment of policy authority.

A contributing factor to the riot here was a Negro population, which mushroomed 10 times its size in 25 years. This, the commission said, should have signaled the riot, in which only about two per cent of the city's Negro population participated.

First priority was given by the commission's recommendations to securing employment for those in the Negro community who are unemployed and able to work. The report also recommended a "new approach" to educating Negro children and greater emphasis by police on crime prevention "as an essential element of the law enforcement task."

Kelvinator Gets Soo Worrying Legion Award About Future

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — The Michigan department of the American Legion tonight will present an award to the Kelvinator Division of American Motors Corp. for doing an outstanding job in hiring and helping handicapped workers.

Among those recommending the recognition honor was Frank Christensen, manager of the Michigan Employment Security office here. Christensen said he has been in close touch with the program at Kelvinator.

More than 50 employees with what can be considered major and apparent handicaps are employed by the company.

They include: Four blind or partially blind; six with one eye; 13 paralitics with one leg or one arm missing; 11 deformities such as short leg and club foot; five with withered arms due to polio; five epileptics and many others with back deformities, deafness, missing members of hands or feet, heart cases, arthritic cases and diabetic cases.

The presentation will be received by Herman Kladder, director of industrial relations of the Kelvinator Division on behalf of the company. It will be made by Ruggles B. Harrington, 5th district American Legion Commander at the Northeast Legion Post here.

SAULT STE. MARIE (UPI) — Although Sault Ste. Marie, the third oldest continuous settlement in North America, is rich in history, its citizens worry about its future.

The reason—the Defense Department's announcement that the one remaining economic base of the area, Kincheloe Air Force Base, will be closed by Oct. 1, 1970.

The mayor called the closing "a catastrophe."

The president of the First National Bank, Paul Wilson, was more emotional. His reaction was "Good-bye, good-bye, that's a foul blow to us."

Michigan's two Democratic senators, Pat McNamara and Phillip Hart, also were pessimistic about the community's future, but promised to "take every possible step" to offset the economic loss. Gov. George Romney echoed their statement.

Boosted By Base
Sault Ste. Marie, nicknamed "the Soo," has depended upon Kincheloe and its 2,128 men to hold up its economy since 10 years ago when the largest industries began shutting their doors and moving elsewhere.

During the past decade more than 1,300 jobs have been lost due to industry displacement. Now the only industry of any size is a wood veneer plant which employs 50 persons.

Kincheloe has been providing work for 280 citizens, with an annual payroll of $1.5 million, in addition to money spent in the community by base personnel.

What's in the future for the Soo?

Mayor Dr. David E. Foster said, "It'll be a long time before we'll be able to assess the damage that's going to be done."

Still Has Locks
But the Soo still has the Soo Locks, where more than twice the annual tonnage of the Panama Canal, passes between April to November, when the locks are open. The locks provide the only access to Lake Superior, connecting with Lake Huron.

The locks employ 300 persons, an additional 300 are expected to be employed on construction of new locks, and 100 Coast Guardsmen are stationed there.

The Soo has its game and fish offerings for the sportsman, but the community's tri-centennial anniversary in 1968 is expected to be marred by the closing of Kincheloe, at that time just over the horizon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ranger and family returned to Garden City after visiting with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fitzgerald of Iron Mountain and Airman First Class Herbert Lennox and wife of Eglin AFB Fla., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barkner.

Ruling Awaited On U.M. Regent

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — It may be the end of next week before Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley will issue an opinion on the possibility of a conflict of interest by a University of Michigan regent.

A report was issued Wednesday indicating Regent Eugene B. Powers may have a conflict of interest for being head of a company dealing with the university.

The report was issued by Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, who said his committee investigating Powers' dealings with the school would begin holding hearings as soon as it receives a legal opinion from Kelley.

Kelley's assistant, Eugene Kravitsky, said Wednesday that his office wanted to "check out some information with Powers personally."

Powers was not expected to return from a seven-week Oriental trip until next week.

Kravitsky added that his office also had some research to complete in "several other areas" of the investigation. He said he had some information not contained in the original auditor's report which his office is in the process of verifying.

Powers is president and founder of University Microfilms, which a documented auditor's report said was a conflict of interest on the part of Powers. University Vice President for Business and Finance, Wilbur K. Pierpont supplied the information to the auditor.

An independent law firm has been given a copy of the report and is scheduled to issue a legal opinion at the Dec. 17 meeting of the board of regents.

Military Bases Scheduled For Closing Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced a slash of two-thirds in the nation's long-range bomber force but hinted that a new type bomber may go into production later.

McNamara's latest list of military bases that will be closed or reduced, McNamara revealed that the Strategic Air Command will shut down four bases and transfer two others—one to the Navy and one to the Army.

The secretary said that "certain other bases from which B52 operations are being removed, are being retained for a new mission which will be disclosed subsequently."

New Fighter
This was taken as a hint that the Air Force will be authorized to produce a bomber version of the F111 fighter plane for the 1970's. It would be called B111.

McNamara's list, as he had announced Monday, called for closing or reducing 126 bases in the United States and 23 overseas at an estimated annual saving of $410 million.

The bomber reduction will leave the Strategic Air Command in 1971 with 255 of its latest model intercontinental B52 bombers. Between now and then, it will scrap 425 planes—345 older B52s and all its 80 B58s.

McNamara said the air defense reductions were possible because of the "reduced Soviet bomber threat." Russia is estimated to have fewer than 200 intercontinental bombers.

The base closings also will sharply reduce Air Force reserve and National Guard transport squadrons, air defense jet interceptors and Nike anti-aircraft missile units.

McNamara said that the majority of his actions, which eliminated 53,010 military and civilian jobs, resulted from "basic force level and weapons systems changes."

The main actions announced by McNamara in what he called a "realignment of military forces" were:

—Closing of the Strategic Air Command's Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, N.M.; Clinton Sherman AFB, Burns Flat, Okla.; Sewart AFB, Smyrna, Tenn.; and Kucheloe AFB, Kinross, Mich. Transfer to the Army of Biggs AFB, El Paso, Tex., and to the Navy of Turner AFB, Albany, Ga. The bomber base closings and airplane cuts will save $127.5 million annually.

—Discontinuance, because of the reduced bomber threat, of Navy and air warning forces off the North Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, a number of Nike-Hercules anti-aircraft batteries and 17 air defense jet interceptor squadrons. These actions will save $150.7 million annually.

Planes Obsolete
—Eight Air Force reserve and three Air National Guard transport squadrons will be eliminated at nine bases. They fly obsolescent C119, C97 and 121 transports. Savings will be $28.2 million.

—The Army will inactivate its Antilles command and close Fort Buchanan in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Thereafter, there will be no active Army units in Puerto Rico except personnel administering the Army reserve programs. Savings will be $11.4 million annually.

The Puerto Rico base was the only overseas facility identified. The other 22 are in foreign countries and will be announced later. Estimated savings from the 23 overseas bases will be $92.4 million annually.

Other actions will save $11.1 million annually.

CENTERS MERGED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara today listed the following bases to be closed or reduced in Michigan:

Battle Creek—The Naval Reserve Training Center will be inactivated and consolidated with the Naval and Marine Corps Center, Kalamazoo, in a new center to be constructed by June 1970.

Bay City—The Naval Reserve Training Center will be inactivated and consolidated with the Naval Reserve Training Center at Saginaw by June 1967.

Detroit—The Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center will be inactivated and consolidated with the Naval and Marine Corps Center at Dearborn and the Naval Center at Pontiac by June 1968. New facilities will be available at Dearborn and Pontiac.

Kinross—The 438th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Kucheloe Air Force Base will be relocated to Wurtsmith Air Force Base by July 1969. The 449th Bombardment Wing and supporting units will inactivate by October 1970 and the base will be closed and declared excess. The separate Bomarc site will be retained.

Mount Clemens—The 927th Air Reserve Troop Carrier Group (C-119) at Selfridge Air Force Base will be inactivated by October 1967 and the 71st F-106 Air Defense Command Squadron will be relocated to Richards-Gebauer Air Force Base by April 1967. The 127th TAC Reconnaissance Wing, ANG, will relocate from Metropolitan Wayne County Airport to Selfridge Air Force Base by July 1968.

Drinker Given Break In Court

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Harry B. Bartlett, 59, a one-time balloonist, carnival performer and showman, finally got a break because of heavy personal misfortunes and because a judge remembered him way back when.

Bartlett was known as Pewee Brown when he made balloon jumps at old Ramona Park here when Kent County Circuit Judge Claude Vander Ploeg was a youngster.

"I never dreamed he would come day land in my court," Vander Ploeg commented Tuesday.

Bartlett quit his thrill jumps, went into factory work, railroad work and was doing okay until misfortune started crossing his path seven years ago.

He appeared before Vander Ploeg Monday on drunken driving charges.

Vander Ploeg noted Bartlett's drinking troubles started after his wife died in 1958. A 5-year-old son drowned in 1959 and his youngest daughter died in a fire in the Muskegon area last August.

The judge put Bartlett on probation for 18 months, ordered him to attend a local alcoholic clinic, fined him $100 and court costs of $50 and ordered him to spend five weekends in jail.

Bartlett also will hoof it daily from his home near Marine to Wyoming where he works.

Gifts Burn Up

MORGAN HILL, Calif. (UPI)—Five-year-old Carlos Jimenez lighted a candle, crept into his parents' closet and climbed onto a chair to look for Christmas packages on a shelf. He found them, but his triumph was short-lived. Carlos dropped the candle onto some clothes and the whole closet-packs and all went up in flames. He was not injured.

Bible Is Great Christmas Gift

By United Press International. There's no better Christmas gift than a Bible—if you get the right kind.

The first rule in Bible shopping is to remember that this is not an ornament you're buying. It's a book to be read.

This means two things: 1. Don't blow your money on a fancy Morocco or white leather binding. Standard hard-cover book binding is much less to hold for reading.

2. Get a good modern translation. The old King James version is a noble monument of English prose. Nowhere outside of Shakespeare's plays will you find our native language handled with such grace and felicity. But — like Shakespeare's plays—it contains a lot of words and usages that are baffling to the modern reader. English is a living language and it has undergone enormous changes since the King James translation was completed 354 years ago.

Should Be Readable

The same consideration applies to the Douay-Rheims translation, which English-speaking Catholics have cherished as long as Protestants have loved the King James. They both deserve reverence for the great role they played in edifying our forefathers and shaping our civilization. But give a man a Bible he can read.

There are several excellent modern translations to choose from.

The New English Bible is a vivid translation into contemporary, idiomatic English. It is the work of distinguished British scholars, who spent 13 years on the New Testament alone. They're still working on the Old Testament.

The New Testament is available in a hardcover edition for $4.95. Oxford and Cambridge University Presses. It would be an excellent gift for someone who already is very familiar with the Bible from reading one of the older translations. To such a person, reading the New English Bible is an exciting experience, because long-familiar passages suddenly yield new depths of meaning.

Student Edition

An alternative, very similar in literary style, is "The New Testament in Modern English" by the Rev. J. B. Phillips.

There's a new "Student edition" now on the market. It has introductory notes, an index, and the kind of typography (page-width lines, paragraphs and subheads) which young people are accustomed to find in regular books. It comes in a bright red-white and blue cover for $3 (MacMillan & Co.) and would be a fine gift for any high school or college student.

By far the most widely used modern translation is the Revised Standard Version (RSV). It was produced by American Protestant scholars but has won high praise from Catholic authorities. It is now available in an official Catholic edition, which differs very slightly from the Protestant edition.

The RSV retains the majestic sentence structures and much of the language of the King James, but substitutes contemporary usage for archaic English words whenever necessary to make the meaning clear. It combines high literary quality with clarity of communication, which is about all you can ask from a book.

Andy's Family On Yule Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Of all the stars in movies and television, the one you'd probably like the most to invite over for Christmas dinner is Andy Williams.

Neither he nor merry Andrew would be self-conscious about it.

He's a millionaire, but behaves as if he were looking for his first buck. He has his own weekly television show, but is as unpretentious as a choir singer from Wall Lake, Iowa—which is exactly what and where he was a few years back. Success has left him virtually unchanged from the nice guy image he projects from the television tube.

Some Say Dull

By Hollywood standards he may be a little dull. He has only married once—to beautiful French actress-dancer, Claudine Longet—and is crazy about his two children, Noelle, 2, and Christian, 8 months.

He's a swinger only on the Bel Air golf course, where he shoots in the 70s and 80s.

His level blue eyes and shock of sandy hair are accompanied by a soothing voice and a disinclination to talk about himself, a rare trait indeed among performers.

Andy recently taped his Christmas show, an hour of touching songs and nostalgia that should provide viewers with an inside glimpse of himself and his family.

More than 20 members of the Williams clan, including his three brothers, his parents, in-laws and nieces and nephews, joined Andy for the NBC-TV segment beaming Dec. 13. The happen will call it hokey, but Andy couldn't care less.

In one sequence Andy holds his baby son, Christian, in his arms near the fireplace singing a religious carol, while Claudine and Noelle look on. In the middle of the song Noelle leaned down to kiss her little brother without prompting or rehearsal.

It was a touching moment that brought tears to her father's eyes.

Hokey? No chance. Smooch or Snack

"I was really moved by it," Andy recounted, grinning. "But Claudine had to suppress a giggle. She didn't know whether Noelle was going to kiss her brother or belt him one."

For the first time in a year the old Williams Quartet, composed of Andy and brothers Don, Dick and Bob, will blend their voices in a series of Christmas songs, as they did last year.

"Christmas is a good time for families to get together," Andy said. "We enjoy it. I think everyone does. And I'm very proud of all my relatives. Especially Mom. She never performed before in her life, but she came through on the show like a trouper."

A family show such as Andy's would send Dean Martin to the pits for repairs, evoke a groan from Sinatra and force Jackie Gleason onto a milk diet.

But for Andy Williams it's a natural. He's that kind of guy.

Soo Line Dock Closes Busiest Iron Ore Year

MARQUETTE—The Soo Line Railroad Co. has closed its ore dock here, after its busiest season in 40 years.

For the first time since 1925, the Marquette (lower) harbor facility handled more than one million tons of direct shipping and pelleted ores.

Reflecting the resurgence of mining on the Marquette Range, 146 lake carriers were loaded with 1,068,354 tons of ore at the Soo Line dock this season.

This compares with 844,697 tons of ore taken on by 105 vessels during the 1964 Soo Line shipping year.

Approximately one-third of the ore handled at the Soo Line dock this season was pelleted, with the remainder in direct shipping and improved ores.

Wilson said the couple may remain in Marquette until court convenes in January. Being held in lieu of $25,000 bond are William J. Besaw, 31, and Delores Hansen Besaw, 31. They face federal charges in connection with last Thursday's robbery in Escanaba.

but a new wrinkle was announced by House Majority Floor Leader J. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, on the eve of the session.

Traxler said Democrats will also attempt to override the veto of a bill to set up a $50,000 fund for legal fees of state officers accused of improperly discharging their duties. The bill was an outgrowth of the lengthy hearings resulting in the ouster of Maj. Gen. Ronald D. McDonald as State National Guard leader.

McDonald ran up huge legal bills trying unsuccessfully to defend himself against charges of malfeasance in office.

A. Lassiter, MSU dairy department chairman and luncheon speaker; and Dr. Don Hillman, MSU dairy department. (Daily Press Photo)

Michigan Dairy Future Bright, Dairymen Told

Michigan's dairy industry is on a strong footing and faces a future brighter than ever before, Dr. C. A. Lassiter, chairman of the dairy department of Michigan State University, told a dairy training luncheon meeting at the Sherman Hotel Wednesday noon.

With the cooperation of the state's agricultural industry Michigan State University is making a study of Michigan's agriculture as it may appear in 1980 — "and we expect the conclusions will be far too conservative," said Lassiter.

Lassiter was introduced by Charles J. "Jack" Little, extension dairyman, chairman of the Dairy Department training meeting. About 80 persons attended the luncheon that punctuated the day-long session in the State Office Building.

Dairymen realize there are many changes in the industry now, but they must also accept the fact that change will continue and "you just can't settle down," he said.

The "image" of American agriculture is improved with the decline in surpluses and the growing knowledge that "the revolution in American farming is second to none," with increasing food production being accomplished by fewer persons.

Changing Times
"I'm here today to share with you facts and figures that establish that the dairy industry in Michigan does have a bright future," said Dr. Lassiter. "In fact, to me it never looked better."

Lassiter directed attention to a study for the period from 1945-1964 inclusive, of the contribution of dairy sales to the total agricultural income of Michigan.

In general the report revealed: A decrease in the number of milk cows from 985,000 to 620,000 but an increase in the pounds of milk from 5.5 billions to 5.7 billions.

This rise in production was coupled with an increase in the dollar value of milk sales in the state from $158.4 million in 1945 to $222.3 million in 1964.

"The dairy industry is not doomed in this state as some published sources would indicate," said Lassiter. "It is true we have problems in a changing industry. But we can expect that dairying will continue to be the backbone of Michigan's agriculture."

Although much of the dairy production in the Upper Peninsula may go into Wisconsin, for the state as a whole Michigan produces just about as much milk as its people consume, Lassiter continued.

Efficient Job
"It does not mean a decline in the dairy industry because there are fewer operators and fewer cows," he pointed out. "Last year dairymen showed the highest production and had the highest income in history. These are the facts."

The story is one "of real efficiency" rather than dairy decline, Lassiter added.

By 1980 the dairy industry will have to supply some 10 million people in Michigan, perhaps producing a billion more pounds of milk, and it can be expected the individual dairy farmer will have a higher income, despite rising costs.

"The picture income-wise is not bleak at all," Lassiter continued. "There will be fewer but larger and more efficient operators in the future. And like in other fields, the man who is a poor manager will have to work for somebody else, just like most of us have to do."

Lassiter concluded with a plea to men engaged in dairying and those who work with them to face the future with optimism and confidence, for Michigan is one of the leading dairy states in the nation with a wealth of leadership to guide the way.

County Collects Delinquent Taxes

Delinquent tax settlements of $9,954 were collected during November by the Delta County treasurer's office, according to a statement released today.

Disbursement was made as follows: State tax fund, $79; County general fund, $2,982; Jail sinking fund, $313; Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate school district, $31; Bay de Noc Community College, $377; Townships, $3,568; Cities and Villages, $2,603.

Escanaba received $1,272 and Gladstone $1,330. Township breakdown was: Baldwin, $364; Bark River, $340; Bay de Noc, $174; Cornell, $181; Ensign, $239; Escanaba, $223; Fairbanks, $14; Ford River, $837; Garden, $516; Maple Ridge, $188; Masonville, $239; Nahma, $85; Wells, $160.

It is almost impossible for scientists to predict earthquakes, but they can indicate regions in which they are most likely to occur.

The great advantage of raising corn for silage is that greater tonnage of nutrients for dairy cattle can be raised per acre of farmland.

Can't Overfeed
Dr. L. D. Brown of the MSU Dairy Department, a nutrition researcher, said that it is difficult to overfeed a cow the first 45 days of her lactation.

Due to higher milk production per cow resulting from high grain feeding, dairy researchers have found that the high producing cow (80 to 100 pounds of milk per day) will produce milk at less cost than cows producing 30 pounds of milk and not being fed any grain.

The reason is that the same fixed costs prevail in maintenance, housing, taxes, etc., on cows of the same size.

After Accident, Leave Cars Until Police Arrive

An Escanaba city ordinance prohibits the removal of automobiles from an accident scene, no matter how minor the damage may be, before the arrival of police officers.

Attention of the public was directed to Escanaba Ordinance 304 Section 184 by Municipal Judge James Fitzharris, who said that some persons are unaware of the law.

The driver of a vehicle involved in an accident in which there is injury, death, or any property damage may not, under the city ordinance move his vehicle until ordered to do so by a police officer.

Vehicles should be left without moving them and the police summoned as soon as possible. The officers will then direct the removal of the cars.

DAILY NEWSPAPERS are a GROWTH BUSINESS

Newspapers are first by far in advertising

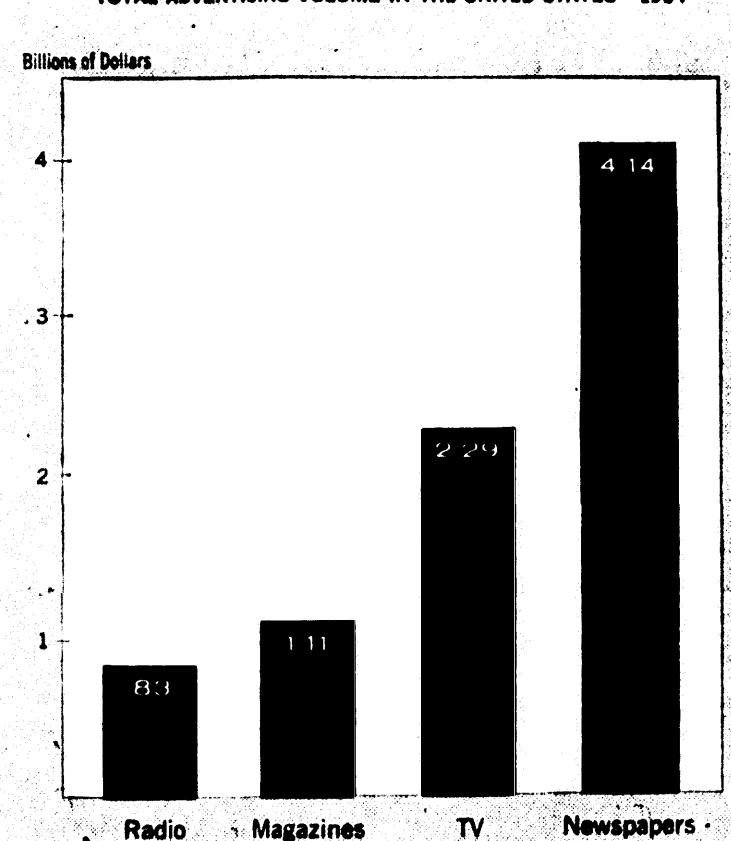

In 1964 newspapers carried as much advertising as radio, television and magazines combined!

By every index newspapers are growing. Their advertising volume has more than tripled since 1946. Last year newspaper advertising totaled more than four billion dollars, putting newspapers ahead of all other media by a wide margin.

Circulation has reached a new high of 60,400,000 copies sold daily. Newspaper employment shows steady growth—more than three times as fast as the growth for all manufacturing. And the prospects are for substantial growth in the future.

Newspapers are growing for one reason: Only the newspaper covers the news fully and in depth. There is no substitute for the daily newspaper.

Coach Verdie Cox of Michigan Tech has a real youth movement going for him in basketball this season. His starting lineup is made up of four sophomores and one junior. Among the sophomores is Ken Seibert, 6 foot 7 inch center who played his prep ball for Coach Harold Johnson at Escanaba High School.

The Marquette Iron Rangers, who now match Waterloo's 4-1 record atop the United States Hockey League standings, have the league's top scorer in Wayne McNair who has swatted home 10 goals to date, including a pair of hat-tricks performed. Marquette's Saturday night foe at the Palestra, the Fox Valley Astros, captured their first USHL victory when they nipped Rochester, 6-4, last Saturday.

The prep wrestling pace picks up in the Upper Peninsula. Even's Bulldogs defeated Munising by a 42-10 margin and bowed to Marquette, 34-16. Iron Mountain was edged, 28-23, by Lena in another recent match. The Mountaineers have one of the classiest wrestlers in the region in Don Roberts, undefeated 120 pounder. A brother, Dave, was seriously injured in an auto accident this fall and was forced to give up the sport. Coach Jim Hira's Escanaba wrestling team will get its first taste of interscholastic competition in a match against Kingsford here Saturday.

In addition to setting the sites for district and regional basketball tournament play, the Upper Peninsula Athletic Committee this week announced dates and sites for other championship events. The U.P. regional ski meet will be held at Marquette Feb. 19, the U.P. track finals at Northern May 21 and the tennis finals May 28. Newberry will host the Peninsula golf tourney May 28. All U.P. schools will be bunched into one class in tennis next spring, following the pattern set in past U.P. golf finals.

When Coach Harold Johnson's Escanaba Eskimo cagers finished with an 8-10 record last season it marked the first time in eight years that his team had missed a winning campaign. In 1957, his first year at the helm, Escanaba won only 4 and lost 11. But after that, Johnson's Eskys quint ran up seven straight winning seasons with an overall 95-32 in that span. Johnson's complete record in his 10th year at Escanaba reads 109 victories against 54 defeats.

The greatest ski jumpers from all parts of the United States will arrive in Ishpeming Dec. 13 to begin a two week training period at Suicide Hill. From the group will be selected a 10 man U.S. jumping team, based on performances at meets scheduled for Madison, Westby, Wis., and Duluth. Coaches of the skiers include Art Tofke of Rockaway, N.J., Ralph Bietila of Ishpeming and Lloyd Severud of Eau Claire.

Bob Brawley, 5 foot 11 inch, 203 pound junior linebacker from Sault Ste. Marie, was named to the 44 man Michigan State squad which will make the trip to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl football game against UCLA Jan. 1. The Spartans will leave for California Saturday, Dec. 18. Brawley was honored as an All-U.P. fullback in his senior year at Soo in 1962.

Injured Cagers Come Off Bench To Spark Celts

By United Press International
Bill Russell and Sam Jones have the injuries, but it's the Los Angeles Lakers who are feeling the pain. The two Boston stars, who had been out of action several games, came off the bench at the crucial point in the third quarter Wednesday night and led the Celtics to a 108-106 victory over Los Angeles. It was the fourth straight defeat, and third in as many nights.

Six players scored in double figures for the Celtics, led by John Havlicek's 24. Bob Boozer and Walt Hazzard had 23 each for the Lakers. During their brief stints, Russell contributed 10 rebounds and Jones eight points.

Bailey Howell sank two foul shots with four seconds remaining to give the Baltimore Bullets a 129-127 triumph over Philadelphia despite a 46-point effort by the 76ers' Wilt Chamberlain.

Despite a 36-point performance by Warrior Nate Thurmond, the Detroit Pistons defeated San Francisco 115-113. The St. Louis Hawks ripped the New York Knickerbockers 104-93 as Zelmo Beaty and Bill Bridges each collected 24 points.

Detroit Rally Nips Warriors

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons did it the hard way Wednesday night, nearly blowing a big lead, before coming back to edge the San Francisco Warriors 115-113.

The Pistons held a 14-point final period lead but watched a last second shot by San Francisco's Rick Barry roll around the rim and drop out before they could be sure of their second straight triumph.

Seconds before Barry's unsuccessful attempt, Detroit's Ray Scott flipped in a short jump shot to give the Pistons the margin of victory.

Detroit, evened its home record at 6-6, won the game over a Warrior handicap. Regular guards Guy Rodgers and Paul Neumann were out of the San Francisco lineup because of injuries. Between the two of them they average more than 42 points per game and are the team's top playmakers.

Nonetheless, the Pistons need every win they can get, especially now that they will be scheduled for six road games in their seven contests. Detroit's road record this season is 1-11.

The Pistons got fine performances from three players to overcome a 36-point night by Nate Thurmond who also grabbed 26 rebounds. Eddie Miles notched 30 for Detroit. Scott had 26 and Rod Thorn 25 points. Barry scored 26 points for the Warriors.

Detroit held the lead through three periods before squandering the bulge in the final stanza prior to Scott's heroics.

Wichita Uses Bruin Style To Upset Wolverine Quint

By JEFF MEYERS
UPI Sports Writer

Wichita was eliminated in the NCAA semifinals at Portland, Ore., last season, but stayed around long enough to pick up valuable information from the eventual champions.

The Shockers were knocked off by UCLA, which went on to whip Michigan in the finals. Although a small team by Michigan standards, the Bruins turned hustle, a fast break and pressing defense into victory.

Wichita used those same tactics Wednesday night to upset the second-ranked Wolverines 100-94. Shorter by about two inches per man, the Shockers ran Michigan into defeat and added insult to injury by outbounding the bulky Wolverines.

Jamie Thompson, a 6-foot-3 guard, took up the slack for injured teammate Kelly Pete by scoring 28 points for the Shockers and hauling down nine rebounds, tops for both sides.

Thompson's rebounding feat is more outstanding since he had to compete with 6-10 Craig Dill.

First Half Lead
Wichita led throughout most of the first half, taking a 49-48 advantage into the locker room at halftime. The unranked Shockers fell behind after intermission but went ahead 53-52 and never lost the lead again.

Four men scored double figures for the Shockers while John Clawson netted 28 points, followed by All-American Cazzie Russell's 21, for Michigan.

Ron Sepic bucketed a field goal and Al Peters sank a pair of free throws to enable Ohio State to defeat Butler 75-74.

Sepic's basket had given the Buckeyes a 73-72 lead and Peters added the final two Ohio State points. The Bucks made up a 72-68 deficit with 1:30 left but narrowly missed defeat when a desperation Butler field goal attempt hit the rim.

Highly touted sophomore Thad Jaraez, who was benched by Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp in his first game, fired in 32 points to power the Wildcats to an 86-68 rout of Illinois. The victory was Kentucky's third straight.

Iowa Extends Streak

Unbeaten Iowa won its fourth in a row by belting Creighton 103-77. Five Hawkeyes hit double figures, with Chris Pervall's 21 points leading the attack.

West Virginia raised its record to 3-0 by whipping VMI 93-75 for its second victory over the Keydets this season. West Virginia led 41-31 at the half and stormed further ahead after intermission as four Mountaineers hit double figures.

Loyola bombed Western Illinois 116-57 as the Leathernecks sank 52 of 101 field goal attempts, while Tom Meyer, the coach's son, pumped in 25 points to lead unbeaten De Paul to a 87-62 triumph over Louisville and Dave Bing netted 30 points to power Syracuse to an 87-81 victory over Cornell.

In other games, Providence whipped Assumption 88-79, North Carolina walloped Richmond 127-76, Florida beat Florida State 75-62, Xavier blasted Canisius 94-73, and St. Louis belted Pepperdine 101-71.

Calvin Downs Olivet Quint

OLIVET (UPI)—Calvin College held off a last minute threat by Olivet Wednesday to beat the Comets 85-77 in a Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association contest.

Bill Dehorn led Calvin in scoring, with 28 points. Buzz Luttrell was high for Olivet with 27.

Calvin led the entire game, but Olivet closed in at 81-77 with 1 1/2 minutes remaining, before Calvin could sink four free throws to cinch the game.

The game was Calvin's first conference appearance. Olivet is 1-1 in the MIAA. Both teams are 2-1 on the season.
